GRAND MASTER'S MESSAGE

GARY C. ROSE
Grand Master 2018-2019

My Brothers all, the Educational Webinar, and the six live onsite Educational Conference meetings are now over and in the history books. I hope you were able to attend and take part in one of them, and came away with something to take back and share with your lodge Brothers.

All the District Deputies have pretty much completed the final planning details for your District Meetings, which will begin this month of March. I remember as a young boy that March was a busy month at home. Dad and I would clean out the manure from the barn and spread it on Mom's garden spot, and then turn it over to be worked in for the new year's garden. The lettuce bed was prepared and the beet ridge was sown at that time, along with the other early crops that would be planted along with them this month. If we hadn't finished our tobacco beds, which we usually tried to get started in February, then we had to finish them too.

I can remember those fertilizer bags, just like it was yesterday!! We had to go to Winchester, Kentucky to pick them up and stockpile them in the barns closest to the tobacco fields, so they would be ready and available for planting time. These bag weighed some 80 lbs each and seemed to be as big as myself. This very well may be part of the cause of my aches and pains to this very day!

I guess what I'm trying to get to, my Brothers, is that by being prepared to do a job is just as equally important as to any part of the task we can undertake, and by doing the front end work properly this will surly effect the final outcome with promising results.

Remember, like all great gardens, the planning stages in your lodges are as important as maintaining and weeding to allow our lodges to grow strong and full, and produce it's yield for all to enjoy. So Brothers, roll up your sleeves, and get to work on the projects your Lodge has before them. Together you can help make our lodges the best they can be!!!

I hope to see you as we continue to travel across this great state visiting our great Lodges!

Do good unto all,

Fraternally Thine,

GARY C. ROSE

Passionate People Inspiring Lives

It's never too late

In 2018, Most Worshipful Grand Master Tim Sanders and First Lady Sue championed a program to raise funds for specialized interactive equipment benefitting Masonic Home Louisville's residents living with dementia. Their inspiration came from Brother Tim's mother who passed away from dementia-related complications. Fundraising for the program was successful and funded a new It's Never 2 Late® (iN2L) system. Thank you to everyone who participated in this special program.

The iN2L system is built on a picture-based, touch-screen interface that allows users to simply "touch" their way to find engaging, educational, spiritual and personalized content that is appropriate to their own level of ability. From using e-mail and web cams to connect with family and friends, to enjoying mind-stimulating activities, to improving hand-eye coordination as part of a rehabilitation program, residents with a wide range of physical and cognitive abilities.

This year, Most Worshipful Grand Master Gary Rose and First Lady Oletta Dunn wanted to provide the same experience for Masonic Home Shelbyville, since Brother Gary's father and Oletta's mother both passed away from dementia-related complications. Their theme, Remember When, reflects how the program's resident-centered software stimulates pleasant memories from the past.

Masonic Homes Kentucky's District Ambassadors are visiting Lodges encouraging members to participate by purchasing Remember When lapel pins for themselves, wives and friends. All proceeds will be used to purchase iN2L systems. When an Ambassador visits your Lodge, please participate.

ANCIENT & ACCEPTED SCOTTISH RITE - ORIENT OF KENTUCKY

MASONIC LIBRARY AND MUSEUM ASSOCIATION COVINGTON SCOTTISH RITE

“I Didn’t Know That.....”

The study of Masonic ritual is a fascinating subject. Because of the secrecy that has always surrounded Masonic ritual, much cannot be found, but by understanding what we do know about Masonic ritual, we can piece together a familiarity of ritual that dates back from hundreds of years to the present. Naturally, the rituals used today in Kentucky lodges are found to be far more elaborate than those of medieval times.

The first known ‘ritual’ in England was the reading of the “ancient charges” to newly made masons. How old this practice was, is uncertain, however, in 1388 AD, a ‘writ of returns’ was issued to all masters and wardens of both guilds and brotherhoods requiring information, “as to the manner and form of oaths, gatherings, feasts, and general meetings of brethren and sistern”; as well as information on their privileges, statutes, ordinances, usages, and customs. Their charters and letters patent, were to be laid before King Richard the Second and his council. Thus was created a need for a history and a set of rules to govern the masons as well as other trades. The reading or reciting of these “ancient charges” to new members continued down through the formation of England’s first Grand Lodge in 1717, the two oldest existing manuscripts are the Regius Manuscript (circa 1390), which is in rhyme, and the Cook Manuscript (circa 1420), which is perhaps a copy of an older version.

Immediately before that era, a Benedictine monk named Ranulf Higdon (1299 A.D? to 1363 A.D.) was writing his “A Polychronicon from the Beginning of the World to the Reign of Edward III, in seven Books”. Higdon was one of many monks who gathered history and traditions that had been handed down from about the fourth century upward, and compiled them together in a sort of encyclopedia of unrelated subjects called the polychronicals (many writings) and preserved them as a historical record. His writings became extremely popular after his death.

Actual excerpts from Higdon’s polychronicals appear in the Cook manuscript and subsequently in every copy of the ‘old charges’ since. The writer of the original ‘Old Charges’ certainly had Higdon’s ‘Polychronicon’ and probably others, as well as the Holy Bible, in front of him as he prepared his manuscript. Thus we learn what was of interest to the freemasons of that time period, which appears to be much more than cutting stone! The Old Charges contain sections which are verbatim to Higdon’s ‘Polychronicon’: the story of Lamech and his two sons Jubal and Tubalcain; Pythagoras; Noah and the Ark; the two pillars; the seven Liberal Arts and Sciences; the founders of art and architecture; how geometry came to England; and the manner in which the masons were honored by receiving a Royal Charter; all of which were used extensively in the pre-Grand Lodge era, and much of which is preserved in abbreviated form in today’s Masonic rituals.

Certainly the Benedictine monk, Ranulf Higdon, would be amazed to learn that millions and millions of men worldwide, who knelt at the altar of Freemasonry and who were recited lectures containing phrases written by him approximately 650 years ago. Amazing and true!!!-----

WILLIAM O. WARE LODGE OF RESEARCH

BOOK REVIEW – SINS OF OUR MASONIC FATHERS

John Bizzack’s latest book, SINS OF OUR MASONIC FATHERS – THE LOST STRENGTH OF FEWNESS IN AMERICAN FREEMASONRY, delves into the question of why American Freemasonry, with lodges chartered only fifteen years after the first Grand Lodge was held in London in 1717, diverted itself from “making good men better” through the education of Masonic principles, its lessons and history; to allowing the ritual to become the sole source of Masonic education. But this is only one of the “sins” or errors of our Masonic fathers. Bizzack uses quotes from well-known Masonic authors, past and present, to support his theory that the perceived need for larger membership is the main culprit which worked against what Freemasonry should stand for. This is not to say that Freemasonry has failed the membership, but the membership has failed itself by not assuring the new Mason, a continuing access to educational material “to improve himself in Masonry.”

Bizzack puts this thought directly to the Masons of today. “Regretfully, the fraternity, its philosophies, and heritage continue to be misunderstood by not just the public, but many Masons who have not received good and wholesome instructions from their lodge, or pursued it on their own.” Unfortunately, the public, as well as some of our brethren, get their impression of Freemasonry from popular books and movies, written by Masons and non-masons, on such subjects as mysticism, conspiracies, treasures hidden and found, and any other subject that will make the novelist, or film maker money. Although some of these types of books and movies may be fun to read and watch, the wrong impression of Freemasonry is placed in the minds of many. We do very little to counter these impressions.

The author lists eight principal “sins” or errors and a host of little ones, which continue to plague the Craft. Each sin is dissected and analyzed thoroughly that the reader will have an excellent understanding, with enough background that he may arrive at his own conclusion.

Today, you and I are the “fathers.” Are we passing on some of the same “sins” to the new Mason? Can we improve on this? Can we make Masonic education a part of the new Mason’s early Masonic life, that when he matures in Masonry, he will be the “father” who continues the process of “making good men better?”

Sins of Our Masonic Fathers – The Lost Strength of Fewness in American Freemasonry is well researched, and brilliantly written. In my opinion, however, the 185 pages should not be read through in one sitting. One should pause after each chapter or even at every section of each chapter, to reflect on what is being said to the reader. Like his previous book Island Freemasonry, it is a book that causes one to think, and I highly recommend it.

Sins of Our Masonic Fathers – The Lost Strength of Fewness in American Freemasonry is available through Amazon.com.

Bro. Bizzack, the author of six other books on Freemasonry, is the currently serving Master of Lexington Lodge No. 1, Lexington, Kentucky and a member and Research Fellow of William O. Ware Lodge of Research.
